Application for the position of Specialized Travel Counselor

I am excited to apply for the position of Specialized Travel Counselor at American Express Global Business Travel.

Being in the IT industry have given me enough freedom to travel with no impact to my work. Travelling and helping other travellers with ideas and helping them execute always gives me a feeling of completeness.

I managed to put in a team of 10 people for a hike in the Himalayan ranges in India back in 2020, which is when I discovered my potential for coordinating travels with budget and making the journey smoother for everyone involved. Having an IT background has helped me to conceptualize how a travel planning should look like.

During my 1 year stay in Oslo, where i worked for Storebrand in the IT department, I volunteered to arrange multiple hikes in and around Oslo and also to some parts of western Norway. I feel i have transformed myself from a tourist to a traveller and also a travel coordinator.

Even though I have been working in the software industry for the last 4 years, i have always seen myself as a travel enthusiast and find the idea of planning and executing travel exciting.

I started learning Norwegian as a hobby, which has turned into a passion now. I am in A1 level now, and plan to keep upgrading my norwegians skills.

I am confident that my experience in the IT industry, combined with my passion for travel and planning, make me an ideal candidate for this position. Very much excited about this opportunity.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Neena Rajan
